His Eminence, Richard Cardinal Cushing, once described Tom Yawkey as "Boston's Own Mr. Baseball" . . . and that's what he has been ever since he purchased the Red Sox and historic Fenway Park in 1933.

In his 29 years of leadership, the Red Sox have finished in the second division only nine times, and after Mr. Yawkey dramatically reorganized the administration of the club in the Fall of 1960, the team started the move back to the first division last season.

Thomas Austin Yawkey was born in Detroit, Feb. 21, 1903. His foster-father William H. Yawkey, the famed industrialist, was President and owner of the Detroit Tigers in Tom's early years, so his indoctrination into baseball was swift. That was a period when the Tigers had many of the super stars of the game and baseball became young Tom's game.

He played himself at Irving School and at Yale University, and even today continues to work out with employees in fast-paced "pepper" games at Fenway Park when the Red Sox are on the road.

Red Sox fortunes were at a low ebb when Mr. Yawkey took the reins in 1933. The once-proud Sox hadn't risen out of the second division in the previous 14 years, and had finished last in nine of those years. Fenway Park was badly in need of repairs, and a rebuilding program was immediately put into effect for both the team and the park.

Expense was no object and before long Red Sox fans were thrilling to the exploits of Lefty Grove, Jimmy Foxx, Bobby Doerr, Ted Williams, Tex Hughson, Vern Stephens, Johnny Pesky, Mel Parnell and countless others. Boston became and still is one of the most solid franchises in the game under Yawkey's direction.

Last season, the Red Sox came up with some new stars, the nucleus around whom the club is building back into a pennant contender. . . . "Rookie of the Year" Don Swall, Chuck Schilling, who set a new fielding record for second basemen, and Carl Yastrzemski, who hit so well in the homestretch of the 1961 season and indicated he'll be a long time fixture at Fenway Park. Many prize bonus players were signed during the 1961 season, as once again Tom Yawkey indicates that his interest in the fortunes of the Red Sox has never wavered.

During the winter months he is in constant touch with Fenway Park. He keeps information about individuals in the farm system at his fingertips, and during the season he's a familiar sight in his roof box at Fenway watching proceedings.

A close second to his interest in the Red Sox has always been his association with the Children's Cancer Research Foundation in Boston, popularly known as the "Jimmy Fund," which he is constantly aiming to enrich and improve.

As Cardinal Cushing so aptly described him, "Boston's Own Mr. Baseball," Thomas A. Yawkey, one of the most respected men ever associated with the national pastime.

PRESIDENT

Thomas A. Yawkey

VICE-PRESIDENT

Richard H. O'Connell

Very few men in baseball had a more thorough knowledge of the intricate operations of a major league franchise as Dick O'Connell had when he became Executive Vice-President of the Red Sox in September, 1960.

The first Greater Boston man to become front office leader of the Red Sox, Dick had been business manager of the club and director of all Fenway Park operations for several years prior to his promotion.

Working closely with manager Mike Higgins in the direction of major league personnel, and with Farm Director Neil Mahoney in the development of the revitalized Red Sox farm system, O'Connell has coordinated and streamlined all the Red Sox operations in the past year and a half and developed a well knit organization dedicated to the task of making the Red Sox a serious pennant contender once more.

A native of Winthrop, Mass., O'Connell graduated from Boston College in 1937, and received his Master's Degree from the same school in 1938. After playing both baseball and football at Winthrop High and Boston College, he became a teacher-coach before entering the U. S. Navy in 1942.

As an officer in Naval Intelligence in the Pacific Area, he directed units for photographic interpretation and collecting enemy base intelligence on the staff of the Joint Intelligence Center directly under the Commander in Chief, Pacific Fleet. In that capacity he played a vital part in the planning of all Pacific invasions from Tarawa in 1943 to Okinawa in 1945.

He joined the Red Sox organization in 1946 as Business Manager of the Lynn Red Sox in the old New England League. He came to Fenway Park in 1948 and has steadily climbed in the administration.

Along with his Red Sox duties through the years, Dick was also recognized as one of New England's top football officials prior to becoming vice-president.

Members of the press have been impressed with his direct and straightforward answers to their questions, and directness has been his main characteristic in guiding the Red Sox operations for the past year and a half. As far as the future of the Red Sox is concerned, he still holds to the statement he made when he assumed the vice-president's role,

"We'll let the results do the talking for us."

Front Office Personnel

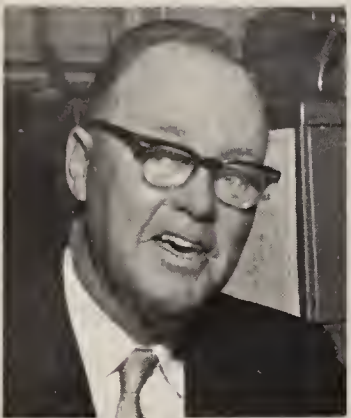

Neil T. Mahoney – Director, Minor League System

Moved into the top spot, directing the activities of the six Red Sox farm clubs and the far flung scouting system, in September, 1960. Another Greater Boston native, Neil Mahoney was one of the area's top semipro catchers known and respected for his all round knowledge of baseball. Graduated from Northeastern University and later coached baseball at Bowdoin College, before joining the Red Sox organization as a scout in 1939. He was supervisor of Eastern scouting before being promoted to Minor League Director. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Pacific Coast League. Mr. Mahoney makes his home in Chestnut Hill, Mass.

Joseph T. Cummiskey – Treasurer

A graduate of Suffolk Law School, Joe Cummiskey had wide experience in both law and accounting before joining the Red Sox organization in 1948. He served as a Lieutenant-Commander in the Navy during World War II and now handles many of the complicated legal and financial affairs connected with a modern major league baseball operation. He lives in Belmont, Mass.

Thomas B. Dowd – Traveling Secretary

One of New England's best known toastmasters and after-dinner speakers, Tom Dowd is now the senior road secretary in the American League. His duties have become increasingly involved because of the problems in moving the entire Red Sox ball club from coast to coast under American League expansion. For many years following his graduation from Holy Cross he was one of the best known National Football League officials, and in recent years was a football radio commentator. He lives in West Roxbury, Mass.

William C. Crowley – Director, Public Relations

Became Public Relations Director in October, 1960, after serving for three seasons as one of Curt Gowdy's broadcasting partners. A native of Dorchester, Crowley was a World War II bomber pilot prior to his graduation from Boston University. He also holds a Master's Degree from the University of Minnesota. A newspaperman, before entering radio in 1949, for several years served as Sports Information Director and Instructor in Economics at Holy Cross College. He resides in Needham, Mass.

Milton J. Bolling – Executive Assistant

Former Red Sox shortstop, whose career was cut short by injuries, he returned to the organization a year ago as assistant to Dick O'Connell in all phases of the club's organization. A graduate of Spring Hill College in his native Mobile, Alabama, Milt Bolling was a successful trucking executive in the South before he returned to baseball.

John M. Malaney – Associate Director, Public Relations

He chronicled the activities of the Red Sox for many, many years before joining the Red Sox staff as Assistant to Joe McKenney, now the American League publicity director. Jack Malaney was President of the Baseball Writer's Association of America in 1944, and after serving the Red Sox as Public Relations Director in 1959 and 1960, now continues as associate. His home is in West Roxbury, Mass.

The Manager

Mike Higgins

Rival American League managers rate the Red Sox the potential "surprise club of 1962" as they watch the second stage in Mike Higgins' youth movement. Under his patient directing, the Red Sox came up with three prize rookies in 1961, Don Schwall, Chuck Schilling and Carl Yastrzemski, and rivals realize that additional help in only a couple of positions will make the Red Sox a serious challenger again in the American League.

The popular Texan is in his seventh season as Red Sox manager, after taking over in 1955, when the Red Sox finished a strong fourth and he was named "Manager of the Year." In 14 years of managing in the Red Sox system, his clubs have finished out of the first division only three times, and with one of the youngest clubs in the game, the Red Sox are expected to be a first division team in 1962.

Red Sox Brain Trust

Mike was born May 27, 1909 in Red Oak, Texas, and was graduated from the University of Texas in 1930. He immediately joined the Philadelphia Athletics and as "Pinky" Higgins he became one of baseball's best third basemen and most feared hitters. He was traded to the Red Sox in 1937, and after two good seasons, moved over to the Detroit Tigers.

He stayed with the Tigers, except for a year in the Navy in 1945, until he was traded back to the Red Sox in May, 1946 and helped the Sox win the American League pennant.

One of the hallmarks of his managing has been his ability to handle his pitching staff to guarantee having the right man rested and ready for each game during the season. A "man's man," Mike commands the respect of his players as a quiet disciplinarian who never embarrasses a player in public.

Under the present Red Sox organization policy, Mike works closely with Dick O'Connell on all problems dealing with major league personnel.

An avid hunter and fisherman, he makes his off season home in Dallas, Texas, where he was installed into the University of Texas "Hall of Fame" last winter.

The Coaches

Rudolph Preston "Rudy" York

Born: August 17, 1913, Ragland, Ala. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: Cartersville, Ga.

"The Chief" is in his fourth season as Red Sox coach and again will be stationed at first base. Well-remembered by baseball fans as the long time slugging first baseman of the Detroit Tigers. He, like Mike Higgins, was a member of the Red Sox pennant winning club in 1946.

A keen student of hitting, he was a batting instructor in the Red Sox minor league system in 1958. He has helped in the development of several of the younger members of the club.

Salvatore A. "Sal" Maglie

Born: April 26, 1917, Niagara Falls, N. Y. Bats and Throws: Right Home: Niagara Falls, N.Y.

After a long and successful career with the Giants, the Yankees and others, "The Barber" became a pitching coach midway in the 1959 season with the St. Louis Cardinals. This will be his third season as Red Sox pitching coach.

Always known as one of the headiest pitchers in the game, Sal's advice has proved very helpful in developing the present Red Sox fine young pitching staff.

William J. "Billy" Herman

Born: July 7, 1909, New Albany, Ind. Bats and throws: Right Home: Vero Beach, Fla.

Mike Higgins rates him as "one of the finest third base coaches in baseball," and he will be sending them in from third for the third year in a row with the Red Sox.

He is rated as one of the great National League second basemen of all time with the Chicago Cubs and the Brooklyn Dodgers from 1931 to 1946. He was a Dodger coach from 1952 through 1957 and with the Milwaukee Braves in 1958-59. One of better golfers in baseball.

Leonard J. "Lennie" Okrie

Born: July 16, 1924, Detroit, Mich. Bats and Throws: Right Home: Linden, North Carolina.

The newest member of the Red Sox coaching staff, Len will be bullpen coach and catcher for his second straight season.

Started professional career as a catcher in 1942. Broke in with Washington in 1948 after being drafted, and was with them, on and off, until traded to Red Sox in 1951. He was sent to Louisville where he worked under Mike Higgins. Started as minor league manager with the Red Sox in 1954 at Bluefield, West Virginia, and directed Corning in the New York-Penn league in 1959 and 1960.

OUTFIELDER

GARY

Born: April 4, 1937, Sand Ridge, Ill. Ht.: 6'11"; Wt.: 165 lbs. Brown eyes; Black hair. Bats: Left; Throws: Right. Home: Gorham, Ill.

Originally a pitcher when he signed with the St. Louis Cardinals organization, following high school graduation in 1954. In fact, he had a 20-7 record, including a no-hitter and was voted outstanding pitcher of the PONY league in 1955. Switched to the outfield in 1957 with Rochester, and came to the Red Sox with Vic Wertz from Cleveland following the 1958 season for Jim Piersall.

He was sidelined in July of 1960 with a collapsed lung as he was enjoying his finest season, but made a speedy recovery. Last year, despite a slump, he still led the Red Sox in home runs with 18, tied with Yastrzemski in triples, 6, led the team in walks, receiving 87, also in stolen bases, 16, and was second to Schilling in runs scored, 82. He was married in February, 1961.

Suffered broken finger in pitching hand at mid-season in 1961 which retarded his come-back effort . . . Son of a father who pitched for Pittsburgh, New York Giants and the Phillies from 1926 through 1932, Chet was signed by the Boston Braves, coming up to that team for the 1961 season and had an 11-8 record with a 2.88 ERA which topped the league . . . Spent next two years in service . . . Started having arm trouble in 1956 and he went to the minor leagues to attempt recovery . . . After staying out of baseball in 1958, he asked Red Sox for a chance with their Minneapolis team in 1959 . . . Had an 18-6 season with Vancouver in 1960 and was brought up to Boston late that year. Works in a bank in the off-season. Married, with a son, 8, and a daughter, 6.

RUSS

Hard hitting catcher was second in team batting, topped only by Pete Runnels. . . . Also had proven hitting ability when he came to Boston in mid-June, 1960 from Cleveland . . . This was second time in the same season he was traded to Boston . . . First time was during spring training when Cleveland swapped him for Sammy White, but deal was called off when White decided to retire from baseball. . . . Deal was revived in June when he and outfielder Carroll Hardy came to Red Sox for outfielder Marty Keough and pitcher Ted Bowsfield. Married and has three children.

Moved into job as first string Red Sox catcher last season in first complete year with team . . . Also started hitting the long ball as was predicted he would, having 16 homers to be topped only by Gary Geiger . . . Originally signed by Red Sox before he reached 18th birthday . . . After two years in service, it took him over two seasons to regain form he had when he went into the Army . . . At Spokane in 1960 he was catching well and batting .292 with 10 homers when he was recalled to Boston on July 26, and finished season with .306 mark . . . Married and has daughter and son.

League batting champion in 1960, handy man Pete was not in as much action last year and thus did not have as many times at bat, but his 114 hits in 360 at bats won him the team championship and only three points lower than the mark which won him the title the year before . . . Had been nosed out of the batting crown in 1958 when a last minute rush by Ted Williams edged Pete, who had led the league most of the year . . . Came to the Red Sox Jan. 23, 1958, from Washington in swap for first baseman Norm Zauchin and outfielder Albie Pearson . . . In 1961 displayed versatility, playing 113 games at first base, seven at second, 11 at third and 1 at shortstop. Married and has three sons.

SCHILLING, Charles T. SECOND BASEMAN CHUCK
(Shill'-ing)

Born: Oct. 25, 1937, Brooklyn, N. Y. Ht.: 5'11"; Wt.: 170 lbs. Hazel eyes; Brown hair. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: New Hyde Park, N. Y.

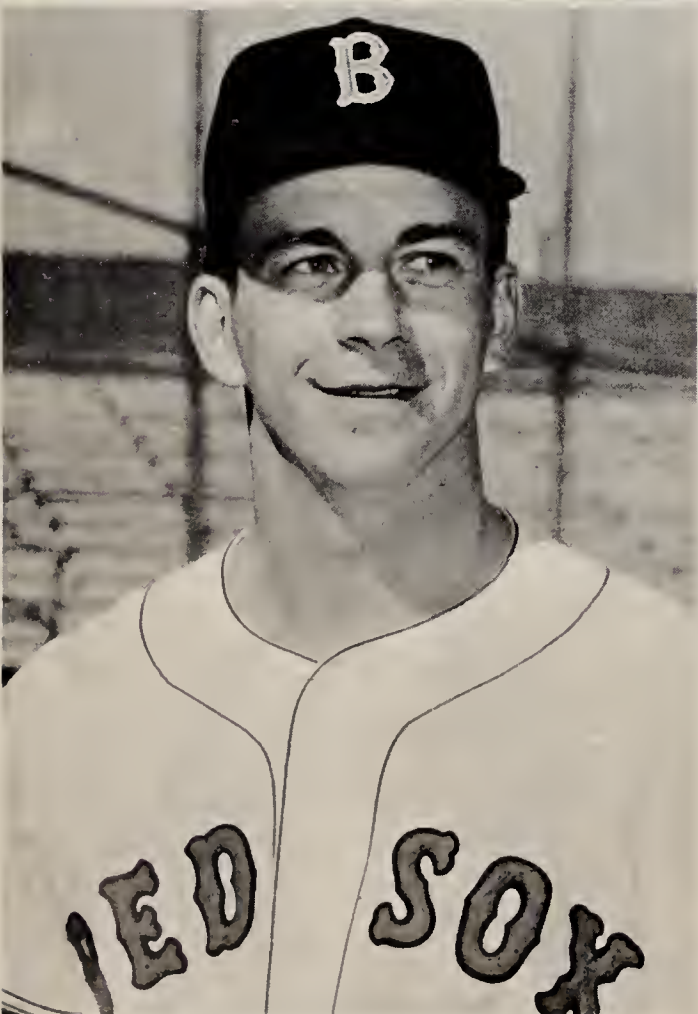

Brilliant young infielder was outstanding in the league last season . . . Had fewer errors in 162 game season than any other second baseman in American League history made in a 154 game season . . . Missed only four games all season, playing in 158 . . . In those 158 games, he was charged with a total of eight errors . . . Only two of these errors were the booting of ground balls; two were on a missed thrown ball covering first and failing to cover second on a stolen base; the other four were on throws . . . His first boot of a grounder came on July 17 and was his first error since June 8: 40 games in which he had 213 chances — 99 putouts and 114 assists; his second error on a grounder came on Sept. 27 in final game of the year at Fenway Park . . . The previous record for fewest errors in an American League season was nine, held jointly by Bobby Doerr of Red Sox and Nelson Fox, White Sox . . . Because of the 162 game season, Schilling missed the honor of tying the major league record — seven errors in a season by Jackie Robinson when he was with Brooklyn. Studying for engineering degree at Manhattan College.

(Sh-wall)

Born: March 2, 1938, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Ht.: 6'6"; Wt.: 200 lbs. Blue eyes, Brown hair. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: Norman, Oklahoma.

American League "Rookie of the Year" in 1961, when he compiled 15-7 record after being brought up from Seattle on May 16. Defeated every club in league at least once, except Detroit, whom he did not face. Had a sensational 10-2 record at Fenway Park . . . where his natural "sinker" came in handy.

Originally spotted by Red Sox in Basin League, while attending Oklahoma University, where he was much better known for his basketball ability. He outrebounded and outscored Wilt Chamberlain in a game with Kansas as a sophomore. Signed by "Wog" Rice in December 1957, he was 7-5 with Waterloo in 1958, but his 23-6 record with Alpine in 1959 tied him as top minor league winner of the year. Although impressive in spring training last year, he was sent to Seattle for regular work before being recalled in May. Pitched in second All Star Game in Fenway Park in July. Recent graduate of Oklahoma University, and has been teaching typing and shorthand.

Had delighted Manager Higgins with his style of pitching after being brought to Boston Sept. 12, 1960 . . . started 1960 season with Allentown of Eastern League, but showed so much ability that he was promoted to Minneapolis where he became an outstanding relief pitcher . . . Protected three shutouts in four days for one of his performances . . . Was starter and reliefer in 1961, but pitched in 75 innings before he figured in a major league result, losing to Kansas City, 1-0 . . . Wound up season with 2-7, both victories being over Minnesota Twins . . . Good will representative of Red Sox ticket department this past winter.

Recognized as promising long ball hitting catcher throughout his first three years in Red Sox system . . . After hitting 24 homers with Minneapolis in 1960 season, shifted to first base with Seattle last season, but injuries forced him to go back to catching and Don Gile became the first base trainee . . . Had his first poor batting season, hitting only .215 with 14 homers, but Manager Pesky says he is a better hitter than that . . . Will be making his second appearance in Red Sox spring training this year and will concentrate on catching.

With only two years of professional experience behind him, put in his first year in major leagues last season . . . Repeatedly the most natural batsman who has come into baseball in years, much was expected of him and the strain of attempting to live up to his reputation proved a handicap . . . Finally overcame nervousness and anxiety as July rolled around and upped batting average 34 points in second half of season . . . After sensationally playing high school and semi-pro ball, was signed into Red Sox system when he was a freshman at Notre Dame . . . With Raleigh in his first season and before he reached his 20th birthday, won league batting title with a .377 average which was 64 points higher than second man . . . At Minneapolis his second year, was edged out of batting crown on final day of season . . . Attends Notre Dame during winter . . . Married and has son and daughter.

FIRST BASEMAN

BOBBY

Born: September 4, 1943, Brookline, Mass. Ht.: 6'2"; Wt.: 180 lbs. Brown eyes and hair. Bats and Throws: Left. Home: Needham, Mass.

The Red Sox outbid almost every other club in the major leagues for his contract last spring after he graduated from Boston English High School, where he had been a three year All Scholastic choice as a long ball hitting first baseman.

After a slow start at Alpine, his hitting showed marked improvement in late season.

PETE

Born: May 5, 1941, Philips, Texas. Ht.: 6' Wt.: 190 lbs. Red blond hair, Brown eyes. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: Lemon Grove, Calif.

Signed with Red Sox in April, 1960, after starring in four sports, baseball, football, basketball and wrestling in high school. He was a hitting sensation at Alpine in the Sophomore League in 1960 and was promoted to Allentown of the Eastern League, where Class A pitching slowed him down somewhat.

He was with the Red Sox in spring training in 1961, but was assigned to Johnstown and eventually wound up with Waterloo, where he had league's highest average, .382, but not enough AB's to qualify for official title. Has also played second and third base.

1961 Highlights

ALL STAR GAME

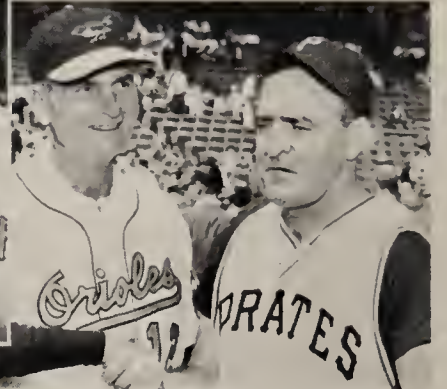

Ted was back to throw out the first ball, with American League president, Joe Crainin, looking on.

American League "Rookie of the Year" Don Swall (center) got together with the Yankee "M Bays," Mantle (left) and Maris (right).

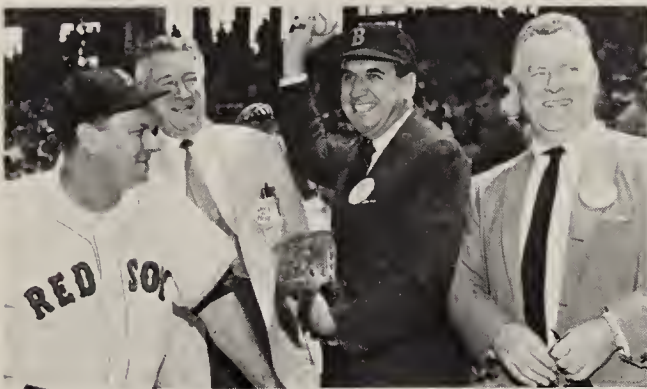

Schwall also got some valuable tips from Warren Spohn of the Braves (right).

The rival All Star managers, who played to a 1-1 tie . . . Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles (left) and Danny Murtough of the 1960 World Champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

CONNECTICUT DAY

Governor Dempsey does the honors for the Nutmeg State as Connecticut Day gets underway.

MAINE DAY

Curt Gowdy acknowledges his gift from Maine fans.

RHODE ISLAND DAY

One of the many colorful bands an hand at Fenway Park during the season.

MONBO'S NIGHT

Bill Monbouquette's Medford neighbors turned out in force to salute their first big leaguer in many years.

JIMMY FUND NIGHT

Despite bad weather a sellout crowd was an hand when His Excellency, Gavernor Jahn Valpe of Massachusetts, threw out the first ball far the Jimmy Fund game with managers Mike Higgins and Charlie Dessen looking an.

An ald Bastan favorite, Warren Spahn, was hanared by the Jimmy Fund through His Eminence, Richard Cardinal Cushing.

FAMILY NIGHT

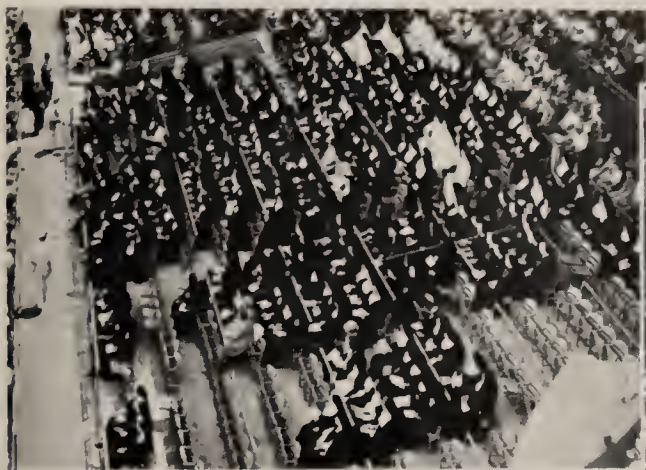

Just a port of the crowd which annually shaws up far popular Family Night.

at Fenway Park

NUN'S DAY

More than 700 Nuns had the time of their lives at Fenway Park on July 5, as guests of the Red Sox and Cardinal Cushing.

The Nuns were really the center of the attraction for photographers, players and fans alike.

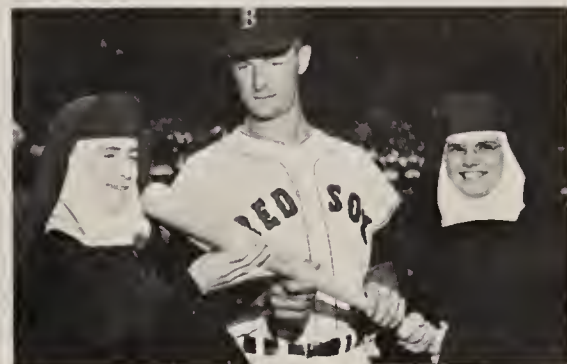

His Eminence has a real good arm.

If the game is slow, there is always crocheting.

He's out? Why that umpire is a robber!

You hold it with the label up, Sister.

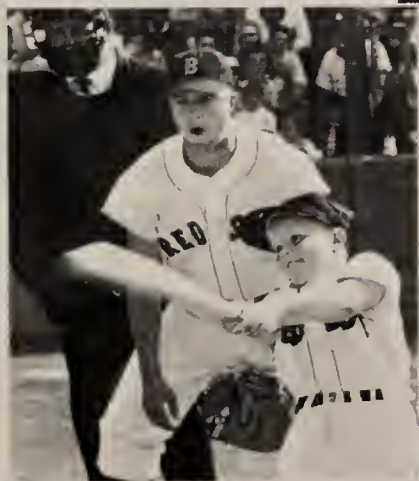

WHDH DAY

Comedian Danny Kaye, flanked by WHDH disc jockies made a wonderful plea for the Jimmy Fund.

Look out for Koye's knuckleball.

There goes another lang drivel

FATHER AND SON GAME

The Sons turned up with a powerful lineup.

There it goes!

Jimmy Malzone turns the table on the photographers.

The star of the show, Jimmy Molzone.

Looks like o slugger.

The Boston Press

No other baseball team is covered more intensively by the press than the Red Sox, and as a consequence New England fans are the best informed of any in the country.

The press box at Fenway Park is always one of the busiest spots in the American League, with anywhere from two to five men from all papers in the area covering each Red Sox home game.

For many writers the Red Sox assignment is a year round job. They follow the club to spring training, travel with the team during the season, track trade rumors at the World Series and are also on hand for minor and major league meetings.

As a result of all this activity, the Boston chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America has become one of the largest in the nation. Joe Cashman is the current chairman of the Boston chapter. The entire membership:

On the air with the Red Sox

Along with the excellent coverage the Red Sox receive in the press, credit for keeping New England fans among the best informed in the nation must also go to the continued high quality of the Red Sox broadcasts and telecasts.

Curt Gowdy, now definitely recognized as the nation's best all round sportscaster, is heading up the Red Sox broadcasting crew for his 12th straight season. His outstanding delivery and knowledge of all sports has brought him national fame from World Series and All Star games in baseball, the full schedule of the NCAA college football games for the past two seasons, his basketball work in the pro and college ranks through the years, and this past winter his coverage of international skiing and bobsled championships from Europe.

Gowdy graduated from the University of Wyoming where he was an outstanding basketball player. After a couple of seasons in Oklahoma City, he joined Mel Allen with the New York Yankees for two seasons before taking over the Red Sox position in 1951. He makes his home in Wellesley Hills, Mass.

CURT GOWDY

NED MARTIN

Ned Martin returns for his second year with the Red Sox after a fine debut in 1961.

A native of Pennsylvania, he graduated from Duke University after service in the Marines during World War II. At Duke he played varsity baseball and was an outstanding swimmer, and entered the radio field after a spell in the advertising and magazine businesses. Last year he was selected to join the Red Sox crew in competition with dozens of other applicants, after broadcasting the Charleston Senator games in the American Association for the previous three years. He now makes his home in Wellesley, Mass.

ART GLEESON

The veteran broadcaster, Art Gleeson, is in his third year as a member of the Red Sox broadcasting crew. A former professional baseball player and front office executive, he has one of the finest baseball backgrounds of any member of the radio-TV profession. He was director of sports for the Mutual Broadcasting System for several years, when he aired the Mutual "Game of the Day."

A veteran of Navy submarine service in World War II, Gleeson, a native of Portland, Oregon, is one of the best liked men in the baseball or broadcasting businesses. He makes his winter home in Casa Grande, Arizona.

Down on the

Here's the real key to the future fortunes of the Boston Red Sox, their six team farm system under the direction of Minor League Director Neil Mahoney, and his very able and genial assistant, Ed Kenney.

Since Mahoney took over the direction of the farm system in September, 1960, many changes took place. The entire scouting system was revamped, a painstaking checking system was installed to study the progress of the more than 150 men on Red Sox minor league clubs, careful records were kept of personnel on other major league teams and other minor league systems, an early instructional camp for promising youngsters was introduced, and allocations of players for the 1962 season were made only after all managers and special scouts had given their opinions in a season's end meeting in the fall of 1961.

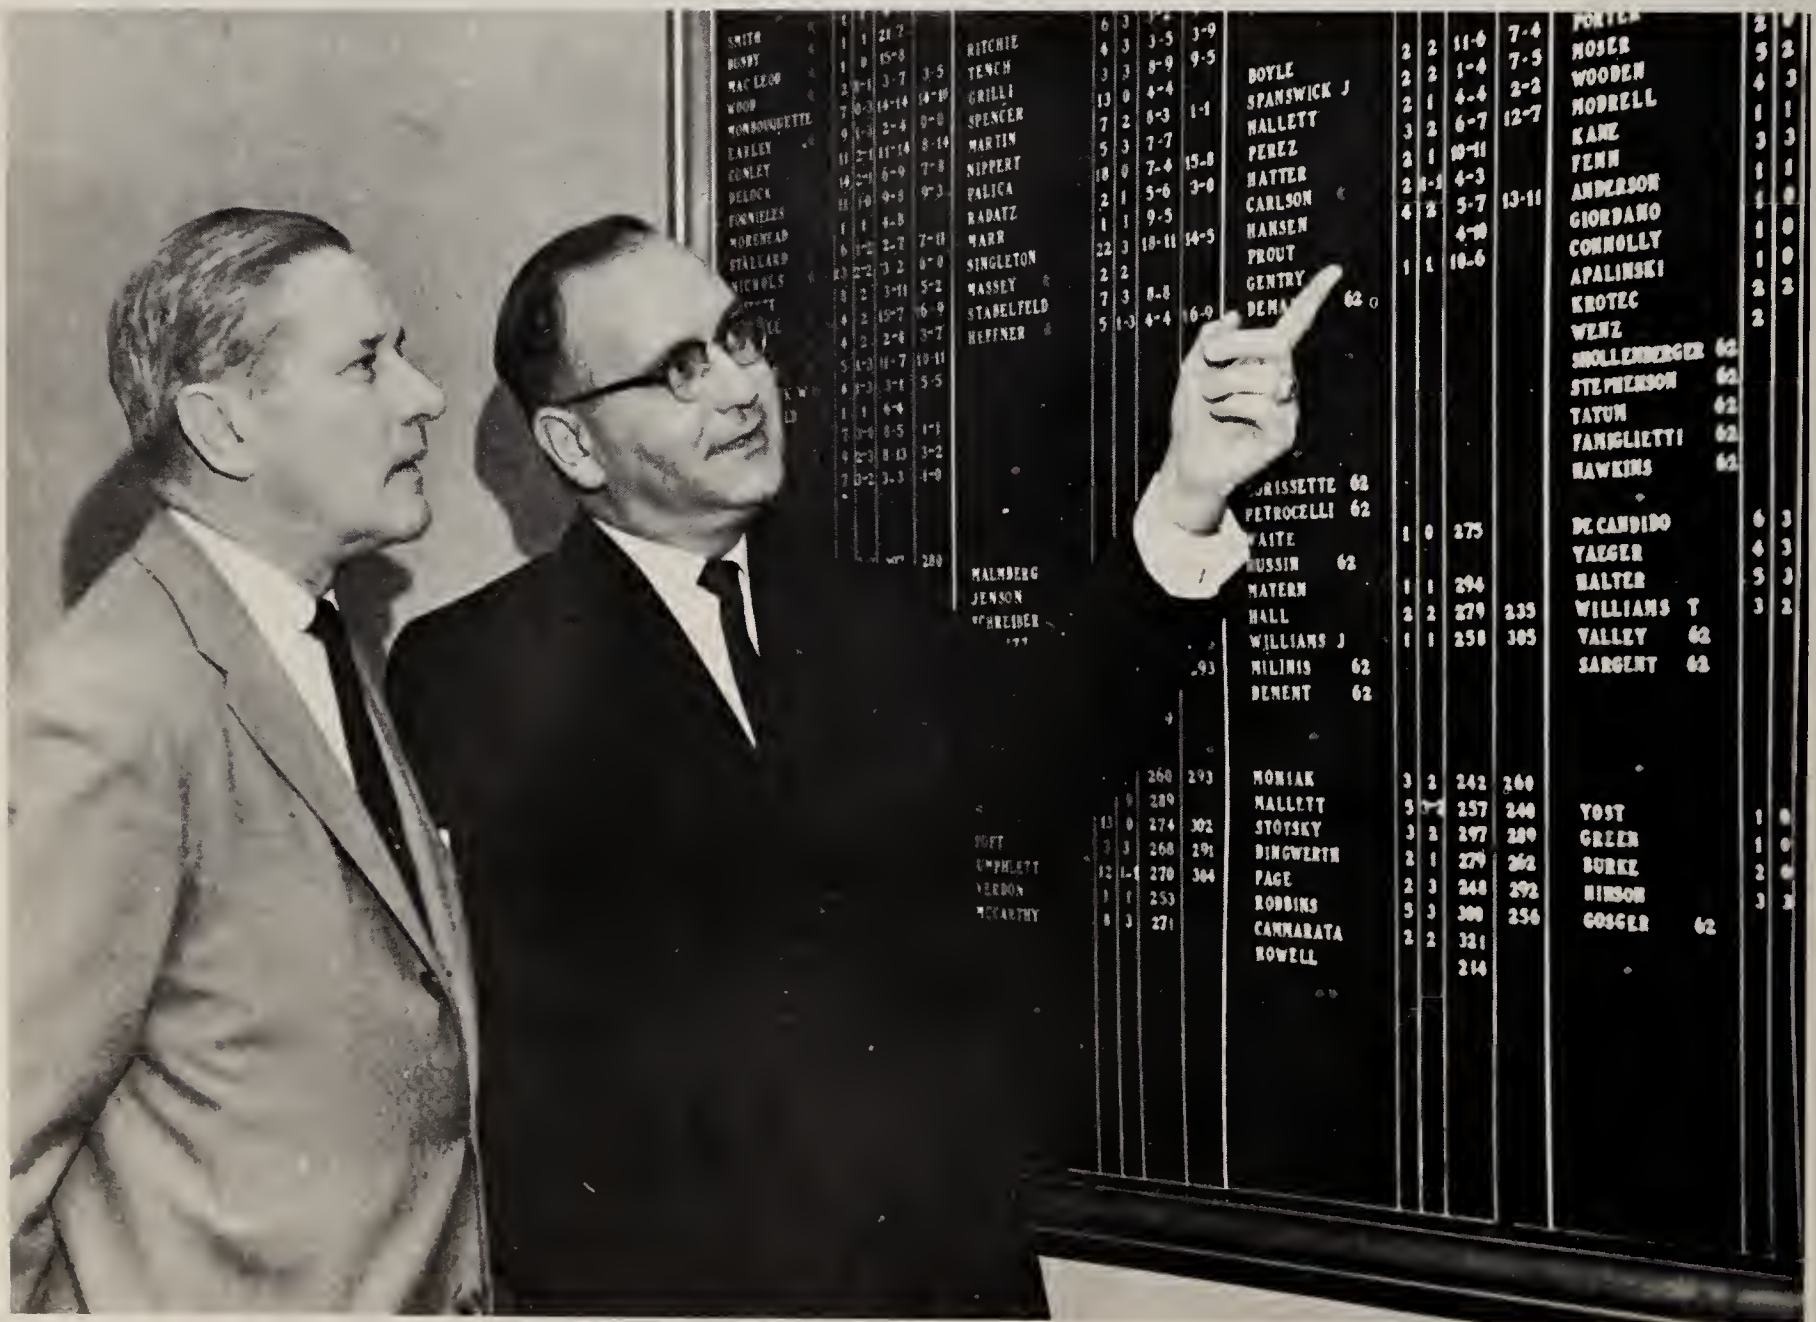

A staff of 28 experienced scouts, including some of the most famous names in baseball, is continually scouring the country for the best of the nation's young baseball talent. Last year many promising youngsters were signed and they will have the benefit of the best possible teaching and preparation to bring them to Fenway Park as soon as possible as the Red Sox move back to their former proud position in the American League.

Former Boston College star, Ed Kenney is the man who coordinates the activities of the six minor league teams and keeps up-to-date records on all the Red Sox hopefuls across the country.

Five Red Sox stars of the past, Ted Williams, Bobby Doerr, Johnny Pesky, Mel Parnell and Charlie Wagner, play vital roles in the farm system under Neil Mahoney's direction, Pesky and Parnell as managers, and Williams, Doerr and Wagner as special scouts.

In 1961, the farm system produced Schilling, Schwall and Yastrzemski, three of the top rookies in baseball, and each year there will be others to join them in the Red Sox flannels at Fenway Park.

Behind the Scenes

Win Green—Asst. Trainer

It takes hundreds of people working the year around to make it possible to field a major league baseball team in such beautiful and comfortable surroundings as Fenway Park affords. The cheers and attention are centered on the men on the field, but here's a salute to some of the folks who help make the fans, the players and everyone comfortable.

1962 Red Sox Caravan

Last January, the members of the "Red Sox Caravan" traveled 1900 miles through New England, visiting 22 cities in 19 days, answering questions posed by the fans. Here they are in one of the few moments of relaxation on the trip . . . Seated (L to R) Dan Schwall, Tracy Stallard, Chet Nichols; Standing (L to R), announcer Ned Martin, Chuck Schilling, Bill Monbouquette, Carl Yastrzemski, Johnny Pesky, Frank Malzone, executive assistant Milt Balling.

Press Conferences were held in each major city visited. Here the group answers questions from the Providence area press.

Carl Yastrzemski was the "keynote" at the Providence meeting.

Big crowd at Springfield, Mass.

Another big crowd was on hand at Hartford, Conn.

Meet the Players Day

Seattle manager Jahnnny Pesky didn't want to lose that cake as he autographed Red Sox yearbooks, while Frank Malzone chats with a lady fan.

Another innovation last winter was Open House at Fenway Park for Red Sox season ticket holders and their families. Over 1500 fans of all ages turned out to meet the Red Sox personnel, get autographs and have their pictures taken with Red Sox stars . . . here Carl Yastrzemski is surrounded by a group of admiring youngsters.

Don Schwall with another happy family group of Red Sox fans.

"What's the 1962 batting average going to be, Carl?" Connecticut fans fire that question at Carl Yastrzemski.

Bill Monbouquette received plenty of attention.

Chuck Schilling is surrounded by admirers.

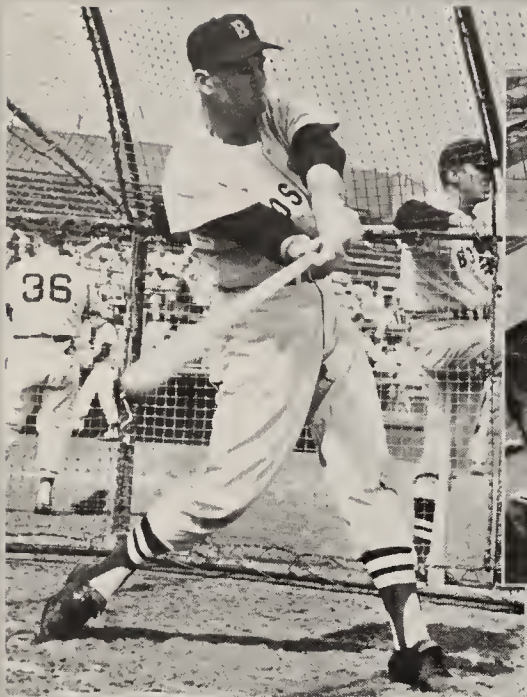

Rookie star Dan Schwall says "One at a time, fellows."

Tracy Stallard meets some future big leaguers.

"Welcome to Scottsdale" was the theme of this party given by "Los Charros," the group of young businessmen in the Scottsdale area who help promote the "West's most western town."

Red Sox players, officials, members of the Boston Press and their wives all had a good time at the affairs conducted by "Los Charros" of Scottsdale.

FRANK MALZONE, third baseman for the Boston Red Sox. Voted American League All-Star third baseman 1957 through 1960

BRADFORD ESCHELBACH, Little League third baseman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Eschelbach, Murdock Rd., Natick

Major leaguer or little leaguer, they both get energy to burn from Hood . . . the training table milk!

Brad Eschelbach can't handle a "hot" grounder with the speed and ease of Frank Malzone. But, as an active 9-year-old boy, Brad burns up as much energy in one day as Frank Malzone does during nine innings of Red Sox baseball.

Children require unusual amounts of food energy both to go on . . . and to grow on. Milk is the ideal energy food. Lactose, or milk sugar, is assimilated by the body quickly, converts within the body fast. So, milk gives instant energy. The remaining nutrients in milk convert to energy more slowly, giving you stamina. Milk is the perfect food for a surge of power and staying power.

You give your child all the good things in milk, at their best, in Hood . . . the training table milk. Just as Hood Milk gives Frank Malzone that surge of power and staying power, Hood Milk gives your child energy to burn. Remember, nothing but the best belongs on your table. That's Hood . . . the training table milk! Get it in sparkling glass at your door or handy cartons at your store.

Red Sox Families

If the children are young enough, spring training can be a wonderful time for a ballplayer's family. Of course, if the youngsters are in school, it makes it difficult to bring them to Scottsdale, Arizona.
